

Lean Six Sigma Black Belt Training

A Business Process Excellence Company

Your Reality - Our Solution

Business leaders today frequently ask themselves: How can we improve our business performance? How can we rapidly take cost out without jeopardising current business? How can we accelerate change and still implement sustainable improvements?

R&G Global Consultants offers a structured methodology designed to help you to successfully overcome these challenges in your organization.

Successful and lasting change comes from within

R&G Academy* transfers the skills of this methodology in the form of a Black Belt Training Program. This training forms the baseline of your new skills to effectively lead change-processes and improve your business performance significantly.

The trainers of R&G Academy combine years of experience in implementing these methods and tools, built up in various different industries.

* R&G Academy is the only Academy in the world to own the license of the complete General Electric Six Sigma training material.
